Report of Principal and School Improvement Council

McCracken Middle School experienced another tremendous year. Our students garnered numerous awards in academics, arts, and athletics. The percent of children being recognized as Junior Scholars was the highest ever, as was the number of children being selected for the Duke Tip program. Additionally, 63 students took the high school Algebra I exit exam. All of these students received high school credit and 25 had perfect scores. Students taking the high school English I course also accomplished remarkable completion rates. Lastly, our MAP scores (Measures of Academic Progress) indicated that our students were "exceeding" expected growth targets. All of this is just a sampling of the academic excellence that occurred at McCracken this year.

On the fields of competition, our athletics teams took numerous first place finishes in our district, with our wrestling team placing 4th in the state. Additionally, many of our students were able to participate in both school and recreation teams. We celebrate all their successes as we continue to provide the best programs available for our children.

Although the housing market has slowed, McCracken continues to celebrate wonderful growth. Numerous students have returned from the private-school setting and families continue to relocate to Bluffton. This growth brings new opportunities for students to soar as we expand the curriculum and offer new classes. Some of the classes for the 2008 – 2009 school year include multimedia production and environmental science. Our after school offerings have increased in variety and size to include remediation, enrichment, and acceleration opportunities. Our school newspaper was born, in addition to active art and environmental clubs. The 2008 – 2009 school year may see the birth of McCracken's first student-published literary magazine. Lastly, our students continued to experience the forefront of technology as they produced numerous podcasts and mastered the safe use of internet resources. All of these activities and so many more allowed our children to enhance their daily lives.

Thank you for your continued support. The partnership we share as parents, community, and school is the secret to the success of all our children. We look forward to another exciting year as we continue to build the very best middle school ever!

With High Regards~
