REPORT OF PRINCIPAL AND SCHOOL IMPROVEMENT COUNCIL

Daufuskie Island Elementary School, accessible only by boat and located on the beautiful and historic Daufuskie Island in South Carolina, is the smallest elementary school in the Beaufort County School District with only 12 students. This very unique school receives a great deal of parent and community support. The multi-age learning environment is an option for the pre-kindergarten through fifth grade students that live on the island. Two committed and highly qualified teachers are supported by a full-time assistant that lives on Daufuskie and a principal that serves other schools in the county.

Students, staff and parents continually seek wonderful interactive and hands-on approaches to learning for all subjects. The children thrive in an environment that not only stresses the basics of reading, writing, and arithmetic, but also incorporates real world learning for social studies, science, strings, art, music, physical education, and even German. Analysis of test data obtained through MAP, PASS and classroom-administered assessments enables teachers to individualize instruction based on individual student needs. One teacher also completed a master's program in administration. Celebrating her success was just one of the many ways the Daufuskie Island Elementary students learn not only to learn at school, but to live in the world.
