REPORT OF PRINCIPAL AND SCHOOL IMPROVEMENT COUNCIL

Students at Green Sea Floyds Middle and High School donned their Trojan pride in the academic and athletic arenas throughout the 2011-12 school year. Much of this success is attributed to unrelenting support of our parents and community. Parents and community members visited our school during open house, parent teacher conferences, choral performances, informational Title I meetings, and countless other academic and athletic events. The 2011-12 academic year brought more diversity in course offerings. Our students had an exceptional opportunity to participate in elective courses such as Broadcast Journalism I and II, Newspaper, Creative Writing, and Accounting. As in the past, our teachers have relied solely on data and standards driven, explicit instruction to prepare our students for high stakes tests such as EOCTs, HSAP, ACT, and SAT. Additionally, yearlong English and math courses were afforded to students who required intensive support. Our school also employed three part-time graduation coaches to help students reach their ultimate high school goal of receiving a diploma. Two additional Advanced Placement courses were added to our course offerings. Advanced Placement Human Geography and Advanced Placement Statistics were added to the schedule. The addition of these courses along with Advanced Placement American Government offer increased opportunities for our student to earn college credit while they are in high school. Green Sea Floyds Middle and High School accumulated a variety of accolades including the Palmetto Silver Award and being recognized as one of the US News and World Report's Best High Schools for 2012. Students excelled at the HCS Tech Fair and brought home a number of awards. Choral students competed at All County and All State Conventions with poise. Our cross country team had a great season, placing ninth overall in at the state meet. The Varsity Lady Trojans clinched the coveted district and region championships. Additionally, our senior class accumulated an impressive $1,177,938 in scholarships. Student achievement is our number one priority at Green Sea Floyds Middle and High School. Our future goals are to continue to hone each student's skills to make him the best student he can possibly be. With your support, we anticipate even greater strides in 2012-2013. With Trojan Pride,

Dr. Andrea Parsons, Principal
Sadina Lewis, SIC Chair
